DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-14, drawn to a method of contacting a biological sample isolated from a patient with ONE claimed, isolated protein that binds an antibody in the sample encoded by a nucleic acid molecule for determining regression, progression, or onset of cancer, classified in class 435, subclass 7.1.

(Upon election of Group I, applicant must further choose ONE protein encoded by one SEQ ID NO: from Claim 1 as each polypeptide represents an independent invention, not a species)

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

The restriction of the proteins in Group I is proper. In accordance with the decisions in In re Harnisch, 631 F.2d 716, 206 USPQ 300 (CCPA 1980); and Ex parte Hozumi, 3 USPQ2d 1059 (Bd. Pat. App. & Int. 1984), restriction of a Markush group is proper where the compounds within the group either (1) do not share a common utility, or (2) do not share a substantial structural feature disclosed as being essential to that utility. In addition, a Markush group may encompass a plurality of independent and distinct inventions where two or more members are so unrelated and diverse that a prior art reference anticipating the claim with respect to one of the members would not render the other member(s) obvious under 35 USC 103. The protein molecules of Group I are composed of structurally distinct amino acids sequences, which engender unique functionalities to each protein.

Art Unit: 1642

Furthermore, searching all of the inventions of Groups I would invoke a burdensome search. Although the inventions are classified similarly, classification of subject matter is merely one indication of the burdensome nature of the search involved. The literature search, particularly relevant in this art, is not coextensive and is much more important in evaluating the burden of search. Further, the search for antibodies that potentially bind to all of the different sequences, including the portions, and percentages of different amino acid segments would invoke a high search burden. Currently, there are approximately eight different databases that accompany the results of a search of one discrete amino acid or nucleotide sequence and each result set from a particular database must be carefully considered. Hence, the search of five different polypeptides, and different polypeptide segments in the databases would require extensive searching and review. As such, it would be burdensome to search the inventions of Groups I.

A telephone call was made to Mr. John R. Van Amsterdam on March 6, 2006 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Art Unit: 1642

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
